bringing soduko back. Bob Came in Pieces is a lovely, casual physics-based puzzle game that features a story mode with 14 chapters where your main goal is to collect all the missing ship parts you have lost during a crash with a meteor. To solve the puzzles you have to combine certain parts and attach them to one of the 8 sockets on your ship.

Additionally the game features 10+1 really challenging and cool VR missions (heavily inspired by the VR missions in Metal Gear Solid) where you have to solve some really crazy puzzles with a pre-defined set of ship parts.

In both the adventure and the VR mode the timer can be toggled on/off so it's up to you if you play the game the casual way and explore the levels or go for gold and try to beat the clock to get a silver or gold medal and the respective Steam achievement.

The replayability depends on whether you're into time-attack or not. Either way I can highly recommend this game so make sure to get it (when it's on sale)!. Recog is a rather fun game though, not without its flaws. I like the strategy/industry focus in the game it makes for a good goal, staying alive. The game as mentioned by the developers is hard and it is but, it is just hard not infuriating if you lose you can go back to an earlier save and try again not all is lost and you have all the time in the world to retry. The game has interesting content but, as far as a tutorial the videos online and the wiki don't answer all the questions a new player might have. I think that the game is still new and needs to develop more but, has a lot of potential. Do not buy the game later if you are planning on doing so buy it now to help develop the game but, only if you are certain you will get it later. I would rate this game 8/10.. Thank you Capcom. wouldn't even start up for me!!.. A while back I would have recommended this with a couple caveats, but you can honestly get better for free these days. The idiotproof solution is ShadowPlay if you have an nVidia card, or Open Broadcaster Software if you use ATI or want more options. Both of those have much better compression codecs, lower overhead, a recording buffer feature, and Twitch integration. PlayClaw isn't bad, it's just horribly outclassed.. Simultaneously feels nostalgic and very new, merging old-school graphics and play style with an original story concept and open-world format. I found myself lol-ing at the witty dialogue many times and genuinely attached to several of the characters. Already started my second playthrough!

Very fun bullet-hell game with visually appealing graphics, including wireframe enemies and I have no clue what the player is, but it's cool looking. Anyone looking for a cheap game to play for a few minutes at a time will enjoy this game. Certain parts of the game can be challenging, but overall an enjoyable experience. Would recommend!. Worth buying at full price!. I wanted to play with this in Campaign mode. WHY cant I do that?. DEAR. this game maker

I Find you. An eye-opening game!

I've thought of colonizing Mars as something we may do, later on, somehow. I'm sure they'll figure out how to do it.

After playing this game, now I can see that colonizing Mars really is something that we can do. I feel like I can join in on the discussion on colonizing Mars, or at least listen and understand more of what people are saying; understand what's needed, and what the concerns are. I feel like I understand the kind of life the colonists will have, on Mars. After playing this game, my whole view of Mars has changed: it's another place; not all that different from Earth, but without any oxygen, which is kind of a problem. For the first time, I could imagine myself on the surface of Mars, and felt like I could feel what colonists might really experience there. I'm really glad I played this game.

From a gameplay perspective: colonizing Mars, is a lot different than playing Sim City. There are different challenges than in other games in this genre. Decisions are much more critical. If you go short on a resource you need: you could easily die. In other games, you can often go short on a resource for a while, and be fine. Not here. When I started losing power without realizing it at first, it lead to a very tense few moments as I struggled to overcome the problem. Then all my colonists died, when I could not fix the problem fast enough. It's something that could really happen on Mars. You have to search for the future problem and fix it before it can become an emergency, deciding what is and what isn't going to become a majour problem is what really makes this game.

It's an easy game to pick up, too. I played without the tutorial, and felt comfortable, fast. I think almost anyone could play this game, and it's truely a great experience for everyone to have. I'm glad I played this game, and I think you will be, too. :). I love it. Music is great, scenes are very abstractive but it all fits together. Perfect VR Experience!. Mr. Foster. My gay fetish.
